The Modern Way

Commends itself to the well-informed to do pleasantly and effectively what was formerly done in the crudest manner and disagreeably as well. To cleanse the system and break up colds, headaches and fevers without unpleasant after effects, use the delightful liquid laxative remedy, Syrup of Figs.

THERE WAS NO SHOOTING.

The Story of Another Man Having Been Shot at Hallet's Ranch, Westwater, Utah, Proves to be a Canard.

Chief Fowler and Sheriff Brown returned from Westwater last evening rather crestfallen and wondering if yesterday was really April 1st.

The facts of the scare are that on Saturday evening a lame tramp, calling himself Moran, got off the train at Westwater, went down a couple of miles to Hallet's ranch, came back up to the village and reported that he had been shot at three times by Mrs. Hallet.

As is known to DISPATCH readers the officers from here were called to Westwater on a telegram stating that a man had been shot at Mrs. Hallet's ranch. Mrs. Hallet was very much surprised and somewhat worried at seeing the officers come to her home, and was utterly at a loss to know what it meant.

The cause of their visit being explained to Mrs. Hallet she was more perplexed than ever and denied that any shooting had occurred on the ranch since that fatal Sunday afternoon when Royal Grant lost his life.

Going to Mrs. Darrow's house the tramp was found. He insisted that he had been shot at three times by Mrs. Hallet at the ranch on Saturday evening.

When taken to the Hallet ranch the people there said, yes the tramp had been at the ranch on Saturday evening. He came just at dusk and not knowing what enemy it might be, a man was sent out who ordered Mr. Tramp to halt. On learning it was none of "the gang" of whom the Hallet people are very suspicious he was taken into the house and given some supper.

The officers heard both stories, weighed the evidence carefully and concluded that there was more truth in the version of the affair given by Mrs. Hallet and her little son than that given by the tramp, and therefore made no arrest but took the first train for home.

A CHILD BURNED.

Prompt Work This Morning Saved the Life of Elwood, Son of Benjamin Bachman Jr.

This morning at about 10 o'clock Mrs. Benjamin Bachman Jr., and those who happened to be about the residence were treated to a mighty scare, and it is a wonder that little 2-year old Elwood is now alive.

Mrs. Bachman was over at T. E. Thurman's residence calling for a few moments. She had left her son playing in the house. The hired girl was up stairs at work. Looking across from Mrs. Thurman's Mrs. Bachman saw her darling boy running back and forth, his clothes all ablaze.

The child's screams brought the girl to his rescue before his mother could reach him, who tore the boy's clothes from him. In doing so the girl burned her hands badly.

The child was badly burned on the right leg and some about the abdomen. A doctor was called, who, after examination, stated that although very painful, the burn is not at all dangerous. In some unaccountable manner the child in his play found some matches.

What a Prominent Insurance Man Says

H. M. Blossom, senior member of H. M. Blossom & Co., 217 N 3rd St., St. Louis, writes: I had been left with a very distressing cough, the result of influenza, which nothing seemed to relieve, until I took Ballard's Horehound Syrup. One bottle completely cured me. I sent one bottle to my sister, who had a severe cough, and she experienced immediate relief. I always recommend this syrup to my friends.

John Cranston, 908 Hampshire street Quincy, Ill., writes: I have found Ballard's Horehound Syrup superior to any other cough medicine I have ever known. It never disappoints. Price 50¢ Sold by Smoot Drug Co.

Set that hen now. Early chickens make winter layers. Eggs in the winter are worth double what they are in the spring, summer or fall. Eggs from Halliday's thorough bred chickens is what you should get now to insure a winter supply of eggs.

THERE was a good turnout at the courtroom in the Reed Smoot block last evening in response to a notice calling together those who desired to join a proposed company of the National Guards of Utah. At 7:30 Mr. Sim Cannon called the meeting to order, stated the object of organizing, viz: a company of infantry of the Utah National Guards. Thirty-three gentlemen then came forward and joined after which Mr. C. E. Dorius was elected as captain and Mr. Thos. McGraw as first lieutenant and Mr. Sim Cannon as second lieutenant. Capt. Dorius was then called to the chair and after a brief speech he appointed as first sergeant H. R. McGraw; second sergeant H. E. Rawlings; third sergeant, William Woodhead; first corporal, Eugene Jones; second corporal, Martin Graham. Speeches were then the order of the evening by the newly elected officers.

IS THE SOUTH A WOMAN'S

A Louisiana Lectress Thinks Gives Interesting Reasons. The title of a lecture by a Mrs. New Orleans recently was "Come South, Young Woman." She said she was a writer on the only great daily in the world that is owned by a woman, referring to The Picayune and its chief owner, Mrs. E. J. Nicholson. Of Louisiana she said that it was waiting to be cut up into small holdings by young Corydons and Phylises, who will grow cotton for the central factories, have market gardens, orchards, dairy farms and poultry yards, and who will also grow flowers and make honey. She spoke of Louisiana as already possessing a woman steamboat captain—Mary Miller—and as "a state that builds a monument to the memory of a woman who never had on a kid glove in all her life, who could not write her name, who was only great in her goodness." That was Margaret Hanger, the baker woman whose loaves built asylums and yet feed thousands of hungry ones.

Mrs. Field said that she had seen a kitchen garden whose products equaled any shown at the Chicago fair, and yet they were raised by two young girls. Near by, in the same parish of Cameron, a young Iowa girl squatter, with her 16-year-old brother, took up a government claim of 160 acres and went to planting rice, the first crop of which paid her $1,000. She lives in a three room cottage and has a few fruit trees, plenty of good fences and a sea of waving rice blades. Her nearest neighbor is another girl farmer, who also settled a government claim and is bossing an orchard that is already giving her a comfortable living.

The lectress also told a story of a woman who is dressmaking in Chicago and who bought 80 acres of Louisiana land out of her savings and sent her mother and brother down there to start a poultry farm. They have been so successful that she is about to join them and add small fruits and vegetables to the crops on her land, being assured of becoming independent thereby.

Mrs. Field said that all along the Illinois Central in the river bottom land of Mississippi and Louisiana "are fruit and vegetable farms managed by women—most of them newcomers." They manage the farms and pack the berries and vegetables for the Chicago market. On an old plantation near New Orleans is an old woman who grows camellias and has been to Europe twice on the profits. In Grant parish, in the Red river country, there is an 18-year-old girl who runs her father's cotton gin and gins 1,800 bales a year. "She handles that smorting machine as if it were a baby; oils it, feeds it, fools over it, scolds it, tidies it up, and when it is working as good as gold she sits beside it—dear, dainty and only 18—crocheting lace for her petticoats."

Katherine L. Minor of the board of lady managers of the Columbian exposition is a Louisiana planter, and according to this lectress, in every parish are women farmers, stock raisers and planters. Mrs. Field herself wears a medal that was the gift of the women of 20 different trades and professions followed by the working women of New Orleans. "Women are a power in the south," she says—though that is not a new idea—"of fearful force when they organize. I claim it was the women of Louisiana who killed the Louisiana state lottery. When the Women's Antislavery league was formed, the lottery leaders practically admitted that they had got their Waterloo." As for the question whether women are safe in the south, she answers boldly that "every man is her guard of honor." Accompanied only by a 12-year-old lad she says she traveled 1,800 miles in a private vehicle in Louisiana safe and unharmed. She says that every man's hat is off to the working woman, and she holds securely whatever position her virtues, her brains and her blood demand. "Come south, young woman," she says, "and you will flower there, fragrant all the air. There you will learn what it is to be free, and there a woman may be as she wills—an ant in the morning, a bee at noon, and a butterfly at night."—New York Sun.

American Women and the Queen. Numbers of Americans who aspire to a court presentation during the coming season must come provided with unusual influence and patience. The number is to be limited to 200 at each drawing room in order to avoid the disgraceful crush that is often seen at these functions. Last year nearly 400 were sometimes present, and many waiters and gowns were consequently spoiled. Mrs. Ludlow, wife of the military attaché of the embassy, and Miss Roosevelt, daughter of the secretary of legation, are the only American names thus far on the first list.—London Correspondent.

Good Reason for Faith

Cured of Scrofula by Hood's. Scrofula permeates humanity. It is thoroughly infused into the blood. Scarcely a man is free from it, in one form or another. Hood's Sarsaparilla cures scrofula promptly, surely, permanently. Thousands of people say so. For instance, read this: "I am justified in thinking Hood's Sarsaparilla a splendid medicine by own experience with it. I was a great sufferer from scrofula, having dreadful sores in my ears and on my head, sometimes like large boils, discharging all the time. My husband insisted that I take Hood's Sarsaparilla. Of the first bottle

My Appetite Improved, and I felt somewhat better. So I bought another bottle, and by the time it was half gone the scrofula had entirely disappeared. I am

Hood's Sarsaparilla Cures. Hood's Sarsaparilla cures scrofula and was cured me of a terrible pain in my side, caused by neuralgia of the heart." Mrs. A. C. Medlock, Orleans, Indiana.
